Content :	Chapter I General Principles Article 1 These Regulations are prescribed pursuant to the provisions of Paragraph 3, Article 15 of the Statute for the Establishment and Administration of the Export Processing Zone (hereinafter referred to as this Statute). Article 2 Business entities that have bonded commodities imported to and exported from the Export Processing Zone shall apply to Customs for supervision and control as well as implement the bonded commodity ledgers management as approved by Customs; relevant matters regarding business management of bonded commodities shall be conducted in accordance with these Regulations. The business entities that implement the ledgers management as prescribed in the foregoing paragraph shall apply to Customs for manufacturing non-bonded goods; when those bonded goods are imported to, and exported from, other business entities which are not supervised and controlled by Customs, they shall follow relevant regulations as business entities whose goods are imported to, and exported, from duty-levying areas. These Regulations are not applicable to business entities which have no bonded goods imported to, or exported from, the Zone. Chapter II Management of Bonded Commodities Article 3 The bonded commodities under these Regulations refer to the following commodities: 1.Machinery, equipment, raw materials, fuel, materials, semi-finished products, and samples for own use, experimental animals and plants, as well as goods for trade, warehousing and transshipment, imported from abroad with exemption from import duties, commodity tax and business tax pursuant to Article 13 of this Statute. 2.Commodities sold by manufacturers located in duty-levying areas, and for which offsetting, refund, reduction of, or exemption from, import duties, commodity tax or business tax has to be made pursuant to Article 17 of this Statute; however, this does not apply to commodities applicable to a zero business tax rate. 3.Duty-free commodities deemed as importations or exportations imported from bonded factories, bonded warehouses, free trade zones, science parks, agricultural biotechnology parks, export processing zones (including those from the same export processing zone) or other bonded areas. 4.Goods imported from mainland China in special cases. 5.Processed semi-finished or finished products listed in the preceding four subparagraphs. Article 4 Business entities shall appoint two or more bonded business personnel with high school (vocational school) diploma or higher and the completion certificate of bonded business personnel training held by private organizations examined and approved by the Administration, Branches, or Customs to undertake the bonded business, and report the appointed staff to Customs for approval; the Administration or Branches shall be informed by carbon copy.

The aforesaid bonded business personnel shall undertake the following activities:

1. Self-check of outgoing and incoming bonded commodities.
2. Compilation, verification, preparation, delivery, registration, management, filing, and safekeeping of various ledgers, reports, and documents.
3. Other tasks as required by Customs according to business demand.

A trading business in the zone may entrust specific personnel appointed by the bonded warehouse to conduct various businesses listed in the 2nd paragraph instead of following the provisions prescribed in 1st paragraph, if all the imported and exported goods are stored in a bonded warehouse inside the zone.

Customs, the Administration, or Branches may send personnel to perform random inspection or re-examination of the bonded business described in 2nd paragraph at any time; those who are found to fail to record data or conduct business based on facts, if any, shall be handled according to the regulations stipulated in Article 23 of this Statute or the Customs Anti-smuggling Act.

Article 5

Business entities may import bonded commodities only after they complete the company registration or commerce registration, and obtain a customs control code from Customs. Before completing the company registration or commerce registration, business entities may import relevant machinery, equipment or raw materials for own use with the investment approval documents issued by the Administration as well as a temporary customs control code from Customs, and pay the deposits for import duties to Customs prior to customs clearance; business entities may request deposit refunds at Customs after completing the company registration or commerce registration and obtaining control approval from Customs.

Article 6

Business entities may obtain the Customs approval and check outgoing and incoming commodities by themselves when importing and exporting the following items:

1. Commodities imported from, or exported to, duty-levying areas, free trade ports, and other export processing zones, science parks, agricultural biotechnology parks, bonded factories, bonded warehouses, or other bonded areas.
2. Commodities that are allowed for customs clearance at the place of import or export.
3. Commodities of small value or small quantity imported from, and exported to, foreign countries.
4. Commodities imported from, and exported to, foreign countries by business entities that meet specific requirements.
5. Other commodities approved by Customs.

The specific requirements stated in the preceding 4th subparagraph will be announced after the Administration consults with Customs.

Article 7

When business entities export goods from the Zone (or the factory) according to the provisions in the previous article, the bonded business personnel, who gained approval from Customs after the business entities reported the personnel to Customs, shall fill out the release order of the Export Processing Zone for the commodities out of the zone (factory) pursuant to the regulations. The goods can be released after self-check and inspection, and then the release order should be safeguarded by the bonded business personnel in case Customs or the Administration may perform inspections when necessary. The aforesaid release order shall be stamped by Customs first and then issued in numbered sequence. The stamping is exempted by Customs if the order is allowed to be printed out via computer; the use of serial number shall be reported to Customs, and the receipt for the company may be filed in the form of electronic media for future reference.

Except for those that must be reported to Customs in advance for documents review or inspection, the commodities listed in the 1st paragraph, if required to have an application filled in for declaration, shall be entered in account books after being checked by the bonded business personnel themselves with transaction evidence, packing lists, and other relevant documents, and be reported on monthly basis.

For cases reported on a monthly basis, the incoming and outgoing date of last shipment shall be regarded as the export or import date, and the application shall be filled in by the 15th day of the following month in order to apply for clearance at Customs.

Article 8

Business entities shall produce a bill of materials used per unit of various products (hereinafter referred to as the bill of materials) in duplicate, and send it to Customs for reference within a month after applying to Customs for taking over and inventorying, or after manufacturing new products, and before the products are sent out of the zone; Customs may perform an inspection and request a manufacturing process statement and relevant documents if necessary. If the products are shipped out of the zone before the bill of materials is sent to Customs, the products will not be deleted from the ledgers. However, if the commodities are samples, or if, for any special reason, business entities have reported to Customs for reference with relevant certificates before export, and then sent the required documents to Customs for reference within a month from the day after the export, then the products will not be subject to this restriction.

After receiving the bill of materials, Customs shall return one copy to the business entities as the proof for writing off in the tax account, and retain the other copy.

If there is any change in the original bill of materials, business entities shall produce a new bill in which the reference or approval number of the original document is listed after the alteration, and send the new bill to Customs for reference. The time limit for delivering the new bill is the same as the stipulation in the 1st paragraph.

If the raw materials used by business entities have similar nature and functions and thus can be used interchangeably, the business entities shall clearly indicate the materials in the bill of materials and submit the bill to Customs for reference; combined clearance will then be allowed at the end of the fiscal year.

When business entities write off bonded raw materials for their products, the materials shall be deleted from the ledgers according to the quantity listed in the bill of materials that has been submitted for reference or has been approved. Any leftover bits and pieces and waste materials generated during the production process, if no attrition rate is listed in the material consumption of the bill of materials or if no approval has been gained, may be verified and written off in the bonding raw material accounts after being destroyed under joint supervision of the Administration or Branches, Customs and taxing authorities.

The bill of materials is valid for three years, starting from the date when Customs gives its approval; business entities shall send a new bill to Customs for reference prior to the expiration of the valid period.

The bill of materials may be produced and filed in the form of electronic media, as approved by Customs.

Chapter III Management of Bonded Accounts

Article 9

Business entities shall prepare ledgers for raw materials, materials (fuel), finished products, machinery and equipment for own use, and goods in transit, and present the ledgers to Customs for stamping. After stamping, business entities shall record the incoming and outgoing quantities of products, warehouse inventory, status of machinery and equipment for own use, and other conditions in details according to the regulations prescribed by Customs, in order to provide the records for inspection by Customs, the Administration or Branches at any time.

Business entities that computerize the aforesaid ledgers shall input the relevant incoming and outgoing data into the computer for filing according to the specific time limit, and print out substitute monthly reports for the ledgers by the 20th day of the following month for reference.

The substitute reports for ledgers, as mentioned above, may be produced via electronic media after Customs gives its approval, and shall be sent to Customs for reference within the time limit prescribed above.

The non-bonded raw materials imported by business entities, if they can be mutually replaced with other bonded raw materials, shall also be entered in the original ledgers for management, and shall be listed separately in the annual balance sheet to be combined for computation purposes.

Article 10

Business entities' bonded commodities moving into and out of the factory (warehouses) shall be entered in the accounts within three days. However, bonded commodities imported from foreign countries may be entered in the accounts within seven days after customs clearance.

Article 11

Business entities' ledgers for bonded commodities and reports shall be compiled according to the format prescribed by Customs, unless business entities acquire approval in advance from Customs. Business entities shall preserve the ledgers and reports for 5 years after annual inventory taking; related certificates shall be preserved for 3 years. After the end of inventory taking, business entities may apply for approval from Customs to preserve the aforesaid ledgers, reports, and relevant certificates in microfilms, tapes, floppy disks, CDs, or other electronic media in sequence for the prescribed period; the originals may be destroyed. However, if photocopies of the certificates and relevant documents are required when Customs is conducting legal investigations, business entities shall be responsible for providing the required documents. Customs, the Administration, or Branches may send personnel to consult other ledgers, reports and certificates with official documents due to supervisory or auditing demands in addition to the bonded ledgers and reports, and business entities must not turn down the request.

Article 12

Business entities' bonded commodities shall be stored in order at fixed warehouses or locations; business entities shall assign numbers to the bonded commodities and prepare cards, in order to continually record the quantities of storage, withdrawal, and inventory, in case of inspections which may take place any time. If Customs allows the data to be computerized rather than to be recorded in the record cards, business entities shall continually input the incoming and outgoing data of bonded commodities into the computer for filing.

Business entities are in charge of guarding the aforesaid warehouses and locations where the bonded commodities are stored. If any bonded commodities are released without permission, the provisions in Article 26 of this Statute would apply.

When a business entity' bonded commodities need to be temporarily stored in duty-levying areas due to any special reason, the business entity shall explain why, where and how long the commodities will be temporarily stored, as well as submit a floor plan where the commodities will be temporarily stored and a copy of the building use permit; in the case of rental, the business entity shall also submit a building lease, and then apply to the Administration or Branches for approval. Also, the business entity has to provide a certain amount of guarantees to Customs according to the related regulations of the Customs Act. Any import and export activities concerning the bonded commodities shall be recorded in record cards for reference, and the bonded commodities shall be retrieved within one year.

When the bonded goods of a business entity are temporarily stored in other business entities, the business entity shall explain why, where and how long the commodities will be stored, as well as submit relevant certificates and documents to the Administration or Branches to apply for approval. The Administration or Branches will send a carbon copy of its approval to Customs, but the business entity is not required to provide a certain amount of guarantees to Customs.

Business entities shall report to Customs when suspending their operation for 10 successive days or more.

Article 13

After the approval given by Customs and prior to the implementation of ledgers management, business entities shall set a date for inventory taking, and contact Customs for joint inventory taking. However, the joint inventory taking with Customs may be exempted after verification by Customs when the inventory is taken by a commissioned certified accountant with his or her signature as the certification.

The raw materials, work in process, semi-finished products, finished products, goods in transit, and machinery and equipment for own use that require inventory taking according to the provision in the previous paragraph shall be categorized as bonded commodities for control and management. Nevertheless, business entities may apply for changing the category of the above items to non-bonded commodities at Customs with relevant documents or certificates.

Business entities shall take inventory annually, and compile inventory lists for bonded raw materials, work in process, semi-finished products, finished products, goods in transit, and machinery and equipment for own use prior to the annual inventory taking, as a reference for inspection. Customs, the Administration, or Branches may take inventory at any time, as they deem necessary.

The aforesaid inventory shall be taken jointly with the personnel dispatched by Customs, unless business entities have applied in advance for approval from Customs to commission a certified accountant to take inventory and sign his or her name for certification.

When the bonded goods are approved to be temporarily stored in duty-levying areas, or cannot be retrieved on the inventory date due to contracted processing, the business entities shall fill in an application form, stating the address where the goods are temporarily stored, or the name of the processor and the place where processing is done, and submit a list of commodities to apply to Customs for the out-of-Zone (factory) inventory at least 14 days prior to the inventory date.

The date of annual inventory taking shall not be less than 10 months at minimum, and no more than 14 months at maximum from the previous annual inventory taking, except when business entities have obtained approval from Customs to advance or postpone the date of inventory taking for specific reasons.

If any mistake is found after the inventory taking, business entities shall apply for reexamination at Customs within 14 days following the day of inventory taking, and before the commodities are used; no application will be accepted past the time limit.

In the event that the imported bonded commodities which are cleared through Customs prior to the date of inventory taking cannot be transported into factories for inventory taking for some reason, business entities shall, within 7 days following the day of withdrawal, present the original import declaration form and a supplementary inventory list to Customs to apply for supplementary inventory. Such commodities shall be included in the inventory list for the current year through application after supplementary inventory.

Business entities with a complete management system by computerizing control and management of bonded commodities and production of ledgers and reports and capable of getting inventory lists ready prior to the date of inventory taking, may apply for taking inventory without shutdown or holiday inventory taking, at Customs a month before the inventory taking date, if the production line cannot be interrupted due to the demand for production capacity.

Business entities that have gained approval from Customs for stock taking without shutdown may be exempted from creating inventory cards for the bonded commodities on the production line, but they shall provide relevant reports about the bonded commodities on the production line for Customs inspectors to check promptly.

When the personnel sent by Customs cannot perform an inspection without shutdown or discover major abuses, the personnel may order the enterprises to shut down for stock taking or set another date to shut down the factories for inventory taking.

Article 15

Business entities shall submit the inventory statistical reports and balance statements of bonded raw materials, machinery, equipment, and goods in transit, as well as analysis lists of inventory of materials converted from work in process, semi-finished products, and finished products and of materials converted from finished products exported and for domestic sales to Customs for review according to the inventory, within three months after the stock taking.

The review from Customs may be exempted if the above reports and lists are approved by Customs in advance, signed and certified by the certified accountant who took the inventory, and delivered to Customs within three months following the inventory taking date.

For special reasons, the time limit for delivery of the documents for review or to Customs, as stipulated in the preceding two paragraphs, may be prolonged by one month if Customs has given its approval in advance; the time limit can only be prolonged once.

If there is no inventory surplus or loss on machinery, business entities may not be required to compile machinery inventory statistical reports and balance statements.

The inventory lists signed and certified by the certified accountant commissioned to take inventory stated in the 1st and 2nd paragraphs, analysis lists of inventory of materials converted from work in process, semi-finished products, and finished products, as well as the analysis lists of materials converted from finished goods exported and for domestic sales, may be saved in the form of electronic media, as approved by Customs, and then sent to Customs for review.

Article 16

When the inventory of bonded commodities taken pursuant to the provisions of the previous article does not correspond to the quantities in the book balance, business entities shall follow the following regulations:

1. When the actual inventory counts are less than the quantities in the book balance, repayment of duties and taxes can be exempted if the difference does not exceed the inventory allowance rate; if the difference exceeds the inventory allowance rate, business entities shall amend the declaration forms and repay overdue import duties, commodity tax, and business tax within 10 days from the day following the reception of overdue tax bill issued by Customs.
2. When the actual inventory counts are more than the quantities in the book balance, business entities shall incorporate the difference into the book balance. If the difference exceeds the inventory allowance rate, business entities shall explain the reasons to Customs. If the quantity of product materials listed in the bill of materials is higher, business entities shall amend the bill of materials for the use of annual account settlement the following year.

Raw materials in the same category or which can be mutually replaced and used alternately by business entities, if some are bonded while others are non-bonded, shall be included all together for annual inventory taking; accounts of bonded and non-bonded raw materials shall be written off based on the quantities of actual use. If the quantities of actual use can not be ascertained, the amount of bonded raw materials shall be written off as priority; repayment of duties and taxes can be exempted for inventory loss in non-bonded materials. The allowance rate of raw material inventory difference for business entities is based on the allowance rate table of inventory difference of raw materials classified by industry and category in bonded factories under Customs management.

Article 17

The duty-free machinery and equipment imported for own use may be deleted from the ledgers by business entities and are not subject to ledger management after being imported for more than five years; business entities may present the release order of outgoing commodities of the Export Processing Zone without customs declaration when releasing commodities.

Article 18

Business entities which have withdrawn investment shall follow the following regulations and apply to Customs for closing inventory before the companies are dissolved or move out of the zone:

1. Business entities shall contact Customs to schedule inventory taking, or Customs shall set the inventory-taking date, in order to take inventory.
2. Depending on actual situations, Customs shall seal and store the bonded commodities inside the business entities or at the location designated by the Administration or Branches.
3. If repayment of duties and taxes is required for bonded commodities in the inventory, business entities shall fill in the declaration form; regulations prescribed in the 1st Subparagraph, Paragraph 1 of Article 16 shall apply when the inventory counts are less than the quantities stated in the book balance.
4. Bonded commodities in the inventory of business entities are prohibited from being transported to duty-levying areas unless overdue duties and taxes have been paid. When business entities announce bankruptcy, the inventory shall be handled in accordance with the Bankruptcy Act and the relevant regulations. Before Customs issues tax bills, business entities may provide a certain amount of deposits or guarantees to withdraw the bonded commodities for use due to production or export demands, as approved by Customs, and they shall apply for case closure at Customs with export documents, within a year from the day after the withdrawal. Those who fail to close the case within the time limit are subject to the related regulations of the Customs Act.

If business entities which have withdrawn investment or terminated business fail to take closing inventory mentioned in previous paragraphs, Customs may directly impose the duties and taxes payable based on the book balance.

Chapter IV Customs Clearance for Bonded Commodities

Article 19

Aside from customs clearance in the Export Processing Zone, business entities may also choose to apply for customs clearance for importations and exportations according to the regulations governing customs clearance at Customs at the place of import or export.

Article 20

For applying for customs clearance in the Export Processing Zone for commodities imported from foreign countries, business entities shall declare the goods to Customs at the place of import upon the discharge of cargos from ships or aircraft, and then transport the commodities to the Zone for customs clearance. However, if the commodities are to be transported to the export processing zone adjacent to ports or airports without passing through duty-levying areas, business entities do not need to escort the goods in transportation or seal the goods before transportation.

Article 21

When applying for customs clearance in the Export Processing Zone, in addition to following the provisions in the preceding article, business entities shall store the commodities imported from abroad at the registered and approved depots, container freight stations or the designated location in the zone.

Business entities may apply for Customs' approval to inspect the commodities mentioned in the previous paragraph or to complete the formalities at their factory areas or other assigned locations, and then release the commodities.

If the commodities mentioned in the previous two paragraphs are sporadic imports, with no more than 10 pieces, gross weight not exceeding 20 kg per piece, and the value under the quota for exemption from import permit as stipulated in the Management Regulations for Import of Goods, business entities may attach the application for sealing and shipping the sporadic imports into the zone to apply for an additional seal at Customs at the place of import, and apply for customs clearance at Customs when importing commodities into the zone.

Article 22

When the commodities imported from abroad have been declared to Customs at the place of import and conform to the special conditions prescribed in Paragraph 2, Article 6 in addition to being processed according to the provisions in the preceding article, business entities may check the commodities by themselves and send the commodities into the zone with documents issued by Customs after customs clearance.

Business entities shall apply for customs clearance before checking the commodities themselves and sending the commodities into the zone if the commodities are of small amount or small quantity, as stipulated in the 3rd paragraph in the preceding article.

Article 23

Business entities shall apply for customs clearance in accordance with the regulations governing import of general commodities when applying for exporting importations due to return, exchange, or other reasons.

Article 24

To export commodities to foreign countries and undertake customs clearance in the Export Processing Zone, business entities shall store the commodities at the registered and approved export depots or other designated locations, and enclose the packing list, shipping order and other relevant documents to apply for customs clearance. However, the commodities may be stored at the places of business entities when the commodities are to be shipped and exported in full container load.

After customs clearance, Customs officers will escort the commodities mentioned in the preceding paragraph, or to monitor the commodities to be loaded into bonded trucks, packing boxes, or containers which will be sealed and transported out of the zone, and sign and issue export manifests, container notes, or container lists which will be enclosed with the sealed commodities to be sent to Customs located at the place of export. After Customs at the place of export verifies the documents, the second attached copy of export manifests or container lists will be sent back to Customs, in order to close the case. However, commodities are exempted from additional seal or escort when the commodities are exported from ports or airports adjacent to the Export Processing Zone.

The commodities stated in the preceding two paragraphs, if in a quantity of no more than 10, and with gross weight not exceeding 20 kg per piece, as well as with value under the quota for exemption from export permit as stipulated in the Management Regulations for Export of Goods (hereinafter referred to as export permit exemption quota), may be exported directly by registered parcel post after inspected by Customs at offices or the designated location; or, buyers or sellers may assign personnel to transport the commodities out of the zone after the commodities were sealed, and deliver the commodities to Customs at the place of export, for the commodities to be signed for and exported. In case of commodity loss incurred during the delivery, the relevant regulations of the Customs Act shall apply.

To apply for customs clearance at the place of export for commodities exported to foreign countries; business entities may issue a release order and self-check the commodities before sending the commodities outside of the zone (factory).

Business entities may fill in the application for exporting commodities, self-check the commodities, and send the commodities out of the zone (factory) if the commodities are of small amount or small quantity in accordance with the regulations prescribed in Paragraph 3 of the previous article. Nevertheless, business entities shall attach export documents issued by Customs at the place of export and apply to Customs for case closure within one month after the export. If business entities fail to close the case within the time limit, they shall fill in the declaration form and repay the duties and taxes according to the cases of commodities released from the factory, within 10 days from the day following the expiration of the time limit for case closure.

Article 26

Business entities shall indicate the number of the bill of materials reviewed by Customs in the declaration form for commodities exported to foreign countries; if the bill of material has not been reviewed by Customs and thus no approval number was given, business entities shall indicate the application number.

If the commodities are exported by other manufacturers or traders, business entities shall indicate that ‘this batch of commodities is supplied by so-and-so company in the Export Processing Zone; only this company may apply for deletion from the ledgers, and the export manufacturer is not allowed to apply for tax refunds’ in the declaration form, and then write off the commodities from the ledgers after the export.

Business entities shall submit photocopies of the export declaration form mentioned in the previous paragraph to the Administration or Branches for their reference by the 15th day of the following month.

Article 27

When a business entity sells bonded commodities to another business entity in the same zone, both the seller and buyer may proceed directly with the transaction without having to acquire permits and file customs declaration; however, both parties shall jointly fill in and sign the transaction application of business entities in the Export Processing Zone and file the application with Customs within 5 days after the transaction; both parties may also jointly fill in and sign the declaration form and pay taxes to Customs.

Delivery and reception of bonded commodities between business entities without transactions involved shall follow the regulations in the preceding paragraph.

Customs will issue the export certificate equivalent within 10 days from the day following customs clearance.

When the commodities mentioned in the previous paragraph are eligible for a zero business tax rate, business entities shall apply for customs clearance at Customs and acquire the export certificate equivalent; alternatively, business entities shall sign and certify that they are the buyers in the deduction receipt of the uniform invoice.

The commodities stated in the 1st paragraph, if required to have a declaration form filled in, shall be entered in account books after a self-check, and be reported on a monthly basis. When the commodities noted in the 1st paragraph are returned, the seller and buyer shall jointly fill in and sign the declaration form and enclose photocopies of the original entry documents of commodities into the zone, to apply for the approval of exit of the commodities from Customs within 3 months after the commodities entered the factory; the originally issued export certificate equivalent shall be handed back for nullification. Those who have applied for offset, refund, reduction of, or exemption from, duties and taxes shall return the offset or refunded duties and taxes and notify the competent taxing authority before transporting the commodities outside the zone. If the returned commodities entered the factory more than 3 months prior, business entities shall apply for customs clearance pursuant to the relevant regulations of general imported commodities, and pay the import duties, commodity tax, and business tax according to law.

or exchanged due to damage or the specifications and quality in non-conformity with those stated in the original contract, business entities shall fill in a declaration form with relevant certificates attached to apply to Customs for a duty-free exit from the zone within 3 months from the date following the exit of commodities.

In the event that the bonded commodities imported to duty-levying areas for domestic sales, as specified in the 1st Paragraph, are processed and exported, taxes may be refunded pursuant to the Regulations Governing the Offsetting or Refund of Duties and Taxes on Raw Materials for Export Products and other applicable regulations. However, taxes shall not be refunded for the commodities for which tax refunds have been cancelled.
